Re; Nicolas Jomolca Reference

To whom it may concern.

As president of White Box Technologies, I would like to express my sincere recommendation for Nicolas Jomolca as an exemplary software data engineer.

Nicolas is one of the most proactive go getters I have ever seen. He is extremely positive and willing to jump in and tackle any project. His technical skills are wide and varied with an emphasis on SQL and software engineering. However, if he is unfamiliar with a particular language or may not have the exact technical skill needed for the assignment, he will make the effort on his own time to learn it.

Working in a remote environment can present challenges for individuals not accustomed to remote work. This was no barrier to Nicolas and he collaborated and communicated with other remote team members on a daily basis. He is a reliable hard worker, who took ownership of his assignments and would do what is needed to complete those within the timelines given.

I would recommend Nicolas for any position and he would be a great addition to any company seeking not only technical but personable soft skills as well.
